Faithless Nelly Gray

Faithless Nelly Gray

Ben Battle was a soldier
bold,
And used to war's alarms;
But a cannon-ball took off
his legs,
So he laid down his arms!

Faithless Nelly Gray

Now as they bore him off
the field,
Said he, "Let others shoot,
For here I leave my second
leg,
And the Forty-second Foot!"

Faithless Nelly Gray

The army-surgeons made
him limbs:

Said he, "They're only pegs:
But there's as wooden members quite,

As represent my legs!"

Faithless Nelly Gray

Now Ben he loved a pretty
maid,

Her name was Nelly Gray;
So he went to pay her his
devours,

When he devoured his pay!

Faithless Nelly Gray

But when he called on Nelly Gray,

She made him quite a scoff;

And when she saw his wooden legs,

Began to take them off!

Faithless Nelly Gray

“Oh, Nelly Gray! Oh, Nelly
Gray!

Is this your love so warm?
The love that loves a scarlet coat

Should be more uniform!”

Faithless Nelly Gray

Said she, "I loved a soldier
once,
For he was blithe and brave;
But I will never have a man
With both legs in the grave!

Faithless Nelly Gray

“Before you had those timber toes,
Your love I did allow;
But then, you know, you
stand upon
Another footing now!”

Faithless Nelly Gray

“Oh, Nelly Gray! Oh, Nelly
Gray!

For all your jeering speeches,

At duty's call I left my legs
In Badajos's breaches!”

Faithless Nelly Gray

“Why then,” said she,
“you’ve lost the feet .
Of legs in war’s alarms,
And now you cannot wear
your shoes
Upon your feats of arms!”

Faithless Nelly Gray

“Oh, false and fickle Nelly
Gray!

I know why you refuse:
Though I’ve no feet—some other man

Is standing in my shoes!

Faithless Nelly Gray

“I wish I ne’er had seen
your face;
But, now, a long farewell!
For you will be my death;—
alas!
You will not be my Nelly!”

Faithless Nelly Gray

Now when he went from
Nelly Gray,
His heart so heavy got,
And life was such a burthen
grown,
It made him take a knot!

Faithless Nelly Gray

So round his melancholy
neck

A rope he did entwine,
And, for his second time in
life,

Enlisted in the Line!

Faithless Nelly Gray

One end he tied around a beam,
And then removed his pegs,
And, as his legs were off,—
of course,
He soon was off his legs!

Faithless Nelly Gray

And there he hung, till he was dead

As any nail in town,—

For, though distress had cut
him up,

It could not cut him down!

Faithless Nelly Gray

A dozen men sat on his corpse,
To find out why he died,—
And they buried Ben in four cross-roads,
With a stake in his inside!

An unusually quaint little HOLIDAY BOOK

A NEW EDITION of Cowper's famous poem of JOHN GILPIN'S RIDE, printed and bound in the fashion of the old primers and illustrated on each page with an original and curious woodcut, the work of

ROBERT SEAVER

The humorous flavor of this classic jingle is reflected in the appearance of the volume, and those who are fortunate enough to possess copies of the old juveniles will be reminded of the days of Goody Two Shoes, of Goldsmith and of Newbury, and the little old book shops under the shadow of the Dome of St. Paul's.

The present edition is a square 18mo, bound in boards with leather back, and is for sale at all bookstores, the price being 75 cents.
